Son walks in with cheque to continue mum and dad's support

£20k gift to hospice in parents' memory

By TYRONE MARSHALL

A man has donated £20,000 to Pendleside Hospice in memory of his mum and dad.

Paul Turner, 61, of Bowland View, Brierfield, walked into the hospice and handed over a cheque after the money was left in his parents' estate.

His father, Wilfred, who died last December aged 87, had been a regular supporter of the hospice, as had his wife, Joyce, who died four years ago aged 83.

Paul said: "When I was a young boy, my grandfather died of cancer which is why my father wanted to give as much back as he could to charities like Pendleside, who look after people with life-limiting illnesses.

"In those days, you either died at home or, if you were lucky, you made it to hospital.

"There was nothing like the care you get in hospices these days.

"When my dad passed away, I wanted to continue doing what he had done before me.

"Pendleside is a fantastic charity and deserves all the support that it gets."

Wilfred and Joyce ran the family business, North Valley Metals, for 40 years, before Paul and Wilfred decided to sell it four years ago.

Paul, who handed over the cheque along with his wife Maria, said: "Pendleside Hospice is a charity that was very close to my dad's heart. They really wanted to be able to do this and to leave something positive behind.

"When you donate money to the hospice, you know it is being used for a positive cause and to help people, which is important."

The money will be used to provide care for local people suffering from cancer, and other life-limiting illnesses.

Annual running costs exceed £3.5million, of which more than £2.5million has to be found from fundraising events and donations.

Fashionistas salute cricket star Jimmy

Fashion label Elvis Jesus has collaborated with Lancashire cricket star Jimmy Anderson to create a limited edition T-shirt to celebrate his 10th year playing for England.

Jimmy, who was born in Burnley, has represented his country in more than 50 test matches and 100 one day internat-ionals.

The pace bowler will act as brand ambassador for the 'Elvis Jesus Vs James Anderson' concept, and said he had been an avid fan of the brand for years.

In the past few months, the label has worked closely with the cricketer to create a T-shirt design that is personal to Jimmy, with a unique Elvis Jesus edge.

The 'Jimmy' T-shirt design has been influenced by his history within cricket. In the fine details, it contains the Lancashire rose, and his cricket shirt number.

Each limited edition T-shirt is embellished with his signature, and a unique quote from him.

Jimmy, a former pupil at St Mary's and St Theodore's RC High Schools, Burnley, played cricket at Burnley Cricket Club from a young age.

His childhood dream was to be a cricketer and, at the age of 17, after a growth spurt, Anderson was one of the fastest bowlers in the Lancashire League.

He made his international debut at the age of just 20

A donation from each 'Jimmy' T-shirt sold will go towards a national specialist music charity, Nordoff Robbins, to help it to continue to deliver its music therapy services across the UK to the most isolated and vulnerable people.

The official launch event takes place last week in-store at Elvis Jesus, in the Trafford Centre

Fans had the chance to have their T-shirt signed by Jimmy.

WORTHWHILE: Staff and students with a defibrillator at Pendle Vale. They have undergone training

Death inspired a heart fundraiser

The tragic death of a Nelson school worker has inspired his former pupils to raise money to buy life-saving equipment.

Father-of-five Michael Downing, 64, was supervising a lunchtime break at Pendle Vale Campus last November when he suffered a heart attack and collapsed.

Now students from Pendle Vale College and Pendle Community High School have donated more than £1,900 towards the purchase of three defibrillators.

With backing from the British Heart Foundation, staff and students at the schools have also undergone extensive training so that they can use the devices in the future.

They will be located at the main college entrance, the main corridor of the high school and near the refectory on level two of the campus. Steve Wilson, headteacher at Pendle Vale College, said the campus was on a mission to ensure that staff and students were trained in CPR.

LIFE-SAVER: A defibrillator

He said: "The tragic death of Michael, a parent, member of staff and governor at Pendle Vale College, hit our close-knit community very hard. Despite the tremendous efforts of first-aid-trained staff, Michael eventually lost his fight.

"The purchase of these defibrillators, through the efforts and generosity of staff and students, will not bring back our valued and loved colleague and friend, but it may help us save individuals in the future."

Teacher Malcolm Linford said that funding was also in place to create a training unit to which schools throughout Lancashire would be invited, to learn the basics of using a defibrillator.

Mr Linford added: "I'm delighted at the uptake of training – everyone from cooks to caretakers have got involved."

Barbara Dunn, British Heart Foundation fundraising manager in Lancashire, said: "Having more defibrillators available locally for these emergencies is crucial to saving more lives."

Former mayor hands over charities cash

Last year's Mayor of Pendle has handed over cheques to the charities he supported during his mayoral year.

Coun Nadeem Ahmed and his wife Rukhsana were mayor and mayoress from May 2011 to May 2012.

In that time, they raised money for Pendleside Hospice, Rainbows at the Holden Centre in Barrowford and national children's charity Starlight.

THANKS: Coun Ahmed

In total they raised more than £6,400 which will be shared equally among the three charities.

Coun Ahmed said: "Our mayoral year was a wonderful experience and we met so many interesting and hard-working people.

"I'm so pleased that the work done through the Mayoress's Charity Fund has raised so much money and that these three very worthy charities will now benefit.

"I'd like to thank everyone who supported our fund-raising. Your contribution has made a difference."

Fire shock as firms fail safety checks

Seventy per cent of Lancashire businesses failed fire safety checks last year, putting people's lives at risk, according to a new report.

Business owners have been warned that putting off fire risk assessments and cutting back on vital maintenance to save money is a false economy.

Figures by independent fire expert Safety Management revealed in 3,636 audits carried out between April 2011 and March this year, only 1,089 were found to be compliant by Lancashire Fire and Rescue Service's fire safety experts.

They also served 376 enforcement notices over that period.

Safety Management said it believed the situation in Lancashire was mirrored across the UK, with business owners suffering from a false sense of security that they had their fire safety covered.

Brian Gregory, managing director, said: "Small businesses are feeling the pressure of the recession and are looking to save money, but putting fire safety to the bottom of their priorities is a false economy.

"This figure suggests that businesses are gambling with their future.

"Often, business owners and managers feel that by having fire extinguishers in place and a fire detection system in their building means they are covered. But critically, unless the assessment is completed by a competent person, there is no guarantee that the fire detection is the right system for the building."

The Safety Management study also revealed there were 3,851 arson attacks in Lancashire over the 12-month period. There were also 24 office fires, 76 factory or warehouse blazes and 50 fires in small shops and takeaways.

Safety Management is an independent provider of fire safety training, fire risk assessments and first aid training.

Bouncers needed for charity trampoline

Trampolinists from Burnley are being asked to sign up for a 24-hour bounceathon in aid of Children in Need.

Get Britain Bouncing, which advocates safe trampolining, is calling for clubs, schools and other organisations in Burnley to take part in the event on Friday, November 16.

Martin Schofield, from the group, said: "We are organising a 24-hour bounceathon. The event will take place throughout the UK at various clubs and schools and we are looking for people from Burnley to get involved too.

"All people need to do to participate is hold their own bounceathon and tally up the time bounced by each person taking part in their event. Participants are encouraged to collect sponsorship money for Children in Need."

Although the bounceathon is going to last for 24 hours, people do not need to hold day-long events. He said: "Even if people can only hold a sponsored bounce for a couple of hours during the day or evening then they will be helping to raise valuable funds for Children in Need.

Health centre bid moves step closer

Plans for a multi-million pound new health centre in Colne have moved closer after health bosses submitted a planning application.

Talks over plans for the health centre, on the former Kwik Save site in Craddock Road, began in 2008.

Now work has started on the demolition of the old supermarket and this week a planning application for the health centre was sent to Pendle Borough Council.

Pendle MP Andrew Stephenson said: "I welcome the fact that this scheme is in the final stage of approval and thank NHS East Lancashire for their regular updates. Colne's current health centre is no longer fit for purpose so I am pleased to see this major investment being made."

NHS East Lancashire will be launching a website for the scheme and holding a series of engagement events to support the planning application during October.

If approved, the new health centre will take 12 months to construct and then around four weeks to commission.

Coun Joe Cooney, Pendle Council leader, said: "I welcome the application for our new health centre. Many residents have raised concerns over the current health provision in our town but some have also raised concerns about the empty property on Craddock Road.

"If the application is approved, it will be another step on the continued regeneration and improvement of Colne town centre."

Coun Dorothy Lord said: "This is really good news. After the original scheme fell through, and with all the changes in the NHS, we feared we might lose this project which is so important for our town."

WELCOME: Council leader Joe Cooney

Fresh appeal to trace railway vandals

Police issued a fresh appeal to trace vandals who smashed windows and attacked a ticket machine at Colne rail station.

British Transport Police are asking the public for information after concrete blocks and bricks were used to smash three panels from a platform shelter and the ticket machine.

A car was also badly damaged overnight between Saturday and Sunday, October 5 and 6.

The thugs smashed the windscreen and scratched and dented the bonnet of a Ford Mondeo outside, causing more than £350 damage.

PC Tony Greenwood said: "This is nothing other than wanton destruction carried out by people who clearly have little or no respect for their surroundings or the property of others.

"It is imperative that we trace those responsible before they damage any further property.

"If you know those responsible for the damage at Colne, or have any information about the incident, call BTP on 0800 40 50 40.

Bid to save church hall from dry rot

A church in Pendle is trying to raise £25,000 to pay for urgent repair work to its hall.

St Luke's Church Hall, in Brierfield, is suffering from dry rot in the hall floor, a leak in the kitchen, and needs a new central heating system, and upgrades to the toilets.

Members of the St James' Street church, which is also used for community groups, social events, drama groups, children's groups and lunchtime gatherings, fear that if the money cannot be raised, the future of the hall may be in doubt.

The treatment for dry rot, and subsequent new flooring in the hall, is estimated to cost £10,000.

It is believed that the rot has been caused by water coming in through a wall which had a section of lead flashing stolen.

Church warden Mike Turner said the church was holding a series of fundraising event to try to stump up the cash.

He said: "On top of the floor, we have problems with a flat roof over the top of the kitchen where we can't seem to stop the rain coming in.

"The boiler is on its last legs, and we need to upgrade facilities like the toilets for disabled people.

"It was only when somebody went up on the roof that we found the flashing had been stolen. The water has been running down a cavity between the toilet block and hall block, the damp has got under the floor and it has rotted away underneath.

"It's got past patching up and needs replacing now. We will treat the dry rot, concrete it to a smooth finish and then cover it with something you more likely see in a hospital, or school, a springy vinyl layer.

"The hall is used almost daily by members of the community, social groups and the church.

"The worst-case scenario is we have to get rid of the hall which we don't want to do.

"It's a reasonable building other than the work which needs doing."

The church is holding a gift day tomorrow when the public can visit the hall between 10am and 6pm, share tea and cakes and give donations.

On Saturday, October 27, there will be a bric-a-brac sale, from 9am until 1pm at the hall.

Donations are also being collected at a Thanksgiving Eucharist at 6pm at the church tomorrow, or can be given to Helliwell's Funeral Service, in Burnley Road Brierfield.

For more information on donating, contact church wardens Mike Turner on 690747, or Christine Shore, on 692238. To book a table at the bric-a-brac sale, call 618341. Tables are £5 and refreshments will be served.`

Time runs short to register

Time is running out to register for a postal vote in Burnley in this year's Police and Crime Commissioner election.

The election takes place on Thursday, November 15, and the deadline by which people must be registered to vote is October 31.

Residents who want to vote by post or alternatively cancel a postal vote and attend a polling station must do so by 5pm on October 31. Graham Burgess, returning officer for police elections, said: "It has never been easier to have your say with different ways to vote so freely available.

"But please make sure your vote counts by making sure all your information is correct and up-to-date."

For details, contact the Burnley Council elections office on 01282 477261.

New emergency HQ

The police station in Barnoldswick is to be turned into a police and ambulance station.

Lancashire Constabulary and the North West Ambulance Service (NWAS) have agreed a 15-year deal to share the police building in Fernlea Avenue.

Paramedic chiefs say the ambulance service's move to West Craven's police headquarters will see the closure of the ambulance station in Brogden View, Barnoldswick.

A spokesman for the NWAS said: "This will only be a garage and rest break area for staff."

Horoscopes with Claire Petulengro

Aries March 21st-April 20th

The majority of you rams are not going to be interested in what anyone else has to say today. Only your own opinion and your own views seem to matter. This could well lead to quite a few sparks flying if you meet any strong characters though, so try to keep a bit of a slow pace, if you want to keep that reputation and your heart intact. Ring me now to hear how and when foreign shores call.

Call: 0906 585 4516

Taurus April 21st-May 21st

I've always known that you don't like to be told but you do seem to be feeling rather biased about a work matter that was not yours to decide upon in the first place. You need to make sure that you have all of the information that is required to make such a judgement or you could find yourself ruining that reputation of yours. Call now to hear how listening, not speaking is your key to success.

Call: 0906 585 4517

Gemini May 22nd-June 21st

Fun times may mean you doing something which will offend a close one. Only you can decide how far is too far to go. However there comes a time in life where you must draw a line and treat others as you would wish to be treated in return. Use this weekend to catch up on a personal project that you have been meaning to complete for months, there's a good reason why. Ring now for a full reading.

Call: 0906 585 4518

Cancer June 22nd-July 23rd

Mars is going to be pushing you to make decisions, which may not really be in your best interests. An argumentative frame of mind could see you accusing your close ones of things they have not done. Just remember to set a standard you are willing to live by yourself. More eyes than you think are on you this week my friend. Call now to hear which sign is your key to career success.

Call: 0906 585 4519

Leo July 24th-August 23rd

Try not to worry about looking the fool in love. Concentrate instead on taking a gamble so you may stand a chance of getting what you want out of life. It is far better to take a risk and gain or lose than to never know at all, especially for a sign such as you. The majority of Leos will take that risk, if they can find the courage to find romance this weekend. Ring now to hear where you'll find your soul mate.

Call: 0906 585 4520

Virgo August 24th-September 23rd

There is much work that you know you have to do but you seem to be spending all of your time thinking about it instead of actually doing it. This would all be very well if your thoughts were of a constructive nature. If you know you are going round in circles then plan something relaxing with close ones. You have had more than your fair share of stress of late. Ring now so I can help you relax.

Call: 0906 585 4521

Libra September 24th-October 23rd

Time and money needs to be spent on your home and you may even find yourself putting someone up who you have not seen in some time. There is plenty of fun in store for you this week but make sure you pay off a small debt that is beginning to put a dent in that pristine reputation. You can say you don't care what other people think of you but you and I know different. Ring now to reveal all.

Call: 0906 585 4522

Scorpio October 24th-November 22nd

Use the ability that you have to focus on things so well and try to practice what you all too often preach. Love links to familiar places for both single and married Scorpios, but if you are attached then don't play with fire; your actions are far more obvious than you think, to all around. Dealing with children can change your choices regarding Christmas. Ring me now to face your emotions.

Call: 0906 585 4523

Sagittarius November 23rd-December 21st

I know you think that the efforts you have made in your work over the last few days have gone unnoticed but you would be wrong. You are about to find out just how highly certain figures in your life really think of you. Take the praise nicely though or they will think you are arrogant, which of course you and I both know not to be true, don't we Sagittarius? Phone now to excel in business.

Call: 0906 585 4524

Capricorn December 22nd-January 20th

Your family means more to you now than ever before and you seem to both love and hate this feeling all at the same time. Don't argue with close ones but get on with enjoying what is before you all instead. A money worry that you thought you would have to get help on turns out to be nothing more than a storm in a teacup. Ring me now to right that wrong in love.

Call: 0906 585 4525

Aquarius January 21st-February 19th

Please try to take a little of the advice that you love to give out to everyone else but which you fail to take yourself. Taureans are going to be trying to tell you some very tall stories so get the facts and figures if your dealings with them involve money. You must try to use this weekend to de-stress and to get out a bit more. Give me a ring for some amazing news on your love life.

Call: 0906 585 4526

Pisces February 20th-March 20th

It is just silly to keep accepting things when you have not completed what is already before you. There is too much at stake over the coming month to put your reputation at risk in this way. Emotions are running deep in love and it is time to lay your cards on the table and to tell a close one just what you really want from them. Phone to hear why delaying work is not an option now.

Wordsearch: Wading birds

IN THE SPIRIT Youngsters representing different nations at the event at Turf Moor on Saturday to mark the Kick It Out anti-racism campaign

Great result for Diversity

Celebrating diversity was the main goal for dozens of youngsters attending a pre-match event at Turf Moor.

Primary schools across Burnley and Pendle were each given a specific country to represent as part of the Kick It Out anti-racism campaign's week-long programme of activities.

Youngsters from St Leonard's CE, Wellfield Methodist & Anglican, Barrowford, Laneshaw Bridge, Lomeshaye Juniors, Padiham Green CE and St John the Baptist RC schools took part in a procession before the Clarets' 1-0 victory over Blackpool.

The ground also played host to a multi-ethnic food village, supported by the likes of Holland's Pies, Santa Pizzas and curry specialists Usha.

'I owe Reid win to Kevin'

Boxing

Gisburn-based fighter Kenny Anderson has paid tribute to trainer Kevin Maree after stopping Robin Reid to win the British super middleweight title.

Anderson fulfilled a long-held ambition to claim the Lonsdale belt with a fifth-round stoppage over former world champion Reid at Sheffield's Motorpoint Arena.

The achievement made 34-year-old Maree, from Nelson, the youngest trainer in the country to have a British champion.

Anderson opted to leave his base in Edinburgh to link up with Maree at Stirk House in 2009, on the recommendation of Barry McGuigan.

And he believes the decision has paid dividends, with his trainer's mid-fight advice having a real impact.

Reid, 41, had been competitive in a scrappy opening four rounds before Anderson floored him with an upper cut in the fifth round and then pounced to finish off the fight.

"It feels brilliant to win the British title, it feels surreal," said Anderson, 29, who is expected to make his first defence of his title against Liverpool's Paul Smith.

FEEL THE REAPER: Kenny Anderson is crowned as British champion after stopping Robin Reid on Saturday night

"It's been built up and there's been a lot of hype. To get the victory and achieve the things I wanted to achieve is really brilliant.

"It's heartfelt, I'm really happy that I've finally made this step.

"People don't realise how big an event it has been getting here. My life has really been stalled for most of the past preparing for this.

"I've sacrificed stuff - parties, first day at school with the kids, birthdays – time that I can't get back.

"I'm honoured to have been in the ring with Robin Reid.

"The first round was a cagey round, in the second round we were a bit more in control but I went back to the corner and we were starting to look at things we were doing wrong and he was doing wrong.

"Kevin was telling me to work on the body and then the upper cut, which eventually put him down.

"Barry McGuigan recommended Kevin highly and to be honest to start with I was dubious to say the least because of his age. But I met up with Kevin in Glasgow, then I came down and tried him out.

"With his training techniques it clicked straight away, and with his mindset and morals I knew there could be a personal relationship built there as well.

"I've got a great relationship with him. He's not just Lancashire's best trainer but Britain's best trainer."
